

Wolves

Written by Sandra Iversen

Wolves are animals that look like big dogs. Most wolves have grey-brown fur. Other wolves have black or white fur. They have large paws, big teeth and yellow eyes.

Wolves live in packs.
Some packs have four wolves in them.
Other packs are bigger.
Wolves hunt for food in packs.
They eat sheep, goats, pigs and deer.
They prowl around looking for prey.
They pounce on their prey and bite it.
Their big teeth can crush bones.

Wolves howl to let other wolves in the pack know where they are. They howl to keep other packs of wolves away. They howl in the breeding season.

wolves howling

You can hear a wolf howl
just before it gets dark.
You can hear them howl at night, too.
You can hear the howls
a long way away.

Wolf pups are born in a den.
They cannot see or hear.
They stay in the den for about two months.
Pups learn to bark, growl and howl.
They bark when they want food.
They growl when they are angry.
They howl when they come out of the den.
